Hill's Essex Cross Bats With Cynthiana Today

The Mt. Sterling Essex journeyed today to Cynthiana, where they will do battle with the strong Cynthiana aggregation, which is at present tied with Paris for the league leadership. Hicks Ferrell, Mt. Sterling's pitching ace who struck out 16 of the Maysville sluggers here last Thursday, will be in the box for the locals. "Shorty" Long is expected to be on the mound for Cynthiana and a pitchers' battle is anticipated, as Long has always been difficult for the Mt. Sterling batters. On account of an injury to his hip, Pergren will not be in the game, and it is likely the third sack will be covered by either Welchman or Blake, while Lackey will likely be seen in action in right field. The team will be accompanied to Cynthiana by a large number of fans, bent on seeing Ferrell take the measure of the Harrison county boys.

Winchester will be the attraction at Fair Grounds park Saturday and Sunday and two fast games are expected. Harrison and Hester will likely work in these two contests for the locals.

On Monday (Labor Day) Paris will be the attraction at the local park and it is expected that Ferrell will be sent in to take the Bourbon county lads into camp.

With three such pitchers as Mt. Sterling now has and the team going good behind them, the fans are sanguine in their belief that the Essex are going to land the pennant.

Bituminous Coal Strike Is Ended

The Pittsburg Coal Producers' Association last night accepted terms of the Cleveland agreement and signed a supplementary agreement with the United Mine Workers' organization immediately to reopen 54 mines employing more than 10,000 men. This action practically ended the strike of miners in the bituminous field, which began April 1.

The 1920 union wage will be reestablished. The operators agreed to attend the joint conference at Cleveland October 2, where a new wage scale to become effective after March 31, will be discussed.

Since the Cleveland conference, which marked the beginning of the end of the bituminous coal strike, companies, large and small, have fallen into line with one exception. The Pittsburg Coal Company has refused to discuss any settlement proposal which included the checkoff and this organization resigned from the coal producers' association.

The Pittsburg Coal Company is operating a number of mines on a reduced scale with non-union labor. According to district officials of the United Mine Workers, the settlement reached with the Pittsburg producers' association means that 90 per cent of the 45,000 miners who went on strike have been authorized to return to work.

WANTED—A limited number of pupils in higher English and mathematics.—Mrs. Alice Gay, West High street. (91-2)

Attention, Club Women!

Women's Club Day will verify be the record day of the coming State Fair, and September 12 a day long to be remembered in its annals, if the plans of those having it in charge miscarry not. With Mrs. Geo. R. Newman and the whole Woman's City Club, of which she is president, back of the project, and with the entire federation of the Kentucky clubs, headed by its popular president, Mrs. H. G. Reynolds, lined up to make it a "great day," it's sure to be just that.

Every woman in Kentucky knows about it, or will know about it, for to that veteran worker in well-nigh every cause that touches the advancement of women, Mrs. John H. Miller, the publicity part of the plans has been assigned.

Mrs. Reynolds will preside, there will be music, the mayor of the city and others will speak from the platform especially built for the occasion. But the feature of the day will be the address of Mrs. Lucy Ames Meade, of Philadelphia, who comes as the representative of the General Federation of Women's Clubs. Long a national figure among club women, always an advocate of no more war and the disarmament of the nations, Mrs. Meade's words by voice and pen have won the ear of the world.

State Legion Honors Former Local Man

The Kentucky department of the American Legion went on record in favor of a state bonus at Glasgow yesterday, elected W. C. Wilson, of Lexington, commander to succeed Emmett O'Neal, of Louisville, and adjourned to meet at Ashland in 1923.

The resolution calling for adjusted compensation in Kentucky passed without protest or negative vote.

Another resolution declared the Kentucky Legionnaire to be the official publication of the state department. Brent C. Nunnally, of Louisville and Mt. Sterling, yesterday chosen state adjutant, will be editor with offices in Louisville.

Four vice commanders elected at the session are Adjutant General Jackson Morris, of Frankfort; Colonel H. H. Denhardt, of Bowling Green; Paul H. Underwood, of Lebanon, and W. F. Miller, of Lancaster.

Frank Clerget, of Louisville, was chosen treasurer; the Rev. J. W. Webber, chaplain, and I. J. Domenick, Covington, sergeant-at-arms. Emmett O'Neal was named Kentucky member of the national executive committee, with S. S. Jones, of Louisville, retiring adjutant, as alternate.

A parade was held yesterday, thousands lining the sidewalks around the Glasgow public square.

Other resolutions adopted were:

Call on congress to retire Sergeant Samuel Woodfill, of Fort Thomas, the war's greatest hero, with the rank of captain.

Urge each post to work for good roads and better schools.

Condemn the Young Workers' International for its "un-American activities."

Call for creation of additional chapters of the Woman's Auxiliary.

Urge immediate passage of the national bonus bill by the United States senate.

Immediate erection in this district of a federal hospital to care for the men disabled by shell shock was recommended in a report made by Dr. A. T. McCormack for the rehabilitation committee. Kentucky men so suffering are now cared for at Lakeside, it was brought out, where it is impossible to give the proper treatment. The report was adopted. The report of the Americanization committee, also adopted, was as follows:

"We favor legislation requiring that the national colors be flown during the working hours of each working day over each and every building containing any public offices, and over all school buildings.

"That all children of the public schools be required to repeat in unison some recognized pledge of allegiance to America and to salute the flag at least once each week.

"That this convention take definite action in opposition to such organizations as the Young Workers' International, which is teaching principles contrary to Americanism.

"That we condemn the activities of certain parties, who are soliciting pledges binding our citizens to refuse support to our nation in time of crisis.

"That this convention provide for an appropriation to assist the Kentucky branch of the American council of defense in the promotion of its principles and ideals."

In placing the name of W. C. Wilson in nomination for commander, Judge Samuel M. Wilson, also of Lexington, referred to him as "a man, a real genuine man, a soldier and gentleman" who would perform faithfully and well his duties to the legion.

Gas Well Shot

The Thirteen Oil and Gas Co. shot its initial well in Powell county yesterday, which was brought in some weeks ago, and it is said to show a production of sufficient volume as to be of commercial value.

A million and a half tester was tried on the "gusher" by Louisville parties yesterday, but it proved insufficient to prove the flow of this splendid well, which, it is thought, will be good for at least two million feet.

With these two wells showing such splendid production, other wells will be drilled at once by "The Thirteen," and it is expected that field will soon be invaded by other companies.

Retailers Will Pay Gas Tax

Charges that gasoline wholesalers throughout the state had been failing to pay the one-cent a gallon gasoline tax at the rate of $200,000 a year, were made by Rainey T. Wells, chairman of the state tax commission. As a result the commission issued order that after September 1 the tax would be paid by the retailers instead of the wholesalers and took other steps designed to check on the payment of the tax which goes into the state road fund.

The gasoline tax law was passed by the 1920 general assembly. It provided that the county clerk in each county must execute a special bond for the tax, that each retailer must register and that each wholesaler must report once a month the names of its customers and the number of gallons sold to each. Retailers must report the number of gallons sold and pay to the county clerk one cent a gallon and the clerks must remit this to the state auditor.

"For the past 18 months," said Mr. Wells, "the wholesalers have been permitted to pay the tax for the retailers, including it in the wholesale price. The retailer has been relying on the wholesaler paying the tax. But the wholesalers have not always been doing this, we find.

"We have caught several wholesalers who failed to remit this tax and in the last thirty days have recovered $5,000. At the rate they were going the state would lose $200,000 a year.

"The commission will check the books of every wholesaler doing business in the state within the next forty days. Those found not to have paid the tax will be prosecuted. The penalty for failure to pay the tax is 20 per cent of the unpaid tax and attorney's fees, besides a fine of $50 to $200 for each sale on which the tax is not paid."

Chairman Wells said that the commission would call for reports from the county oil inspectors on the number of gallons they have passed upon and also would check freight shipments received by each retailer.

Twelve as many candidates as the county may elect as delegates are to be nominated and each county is entitled to one delegate for each million pounds or major fraction of a million pounds of tobacco of the 1931 crop delivered to the Association. In counties where the amount delivered to the Association falls below a million pounds each county shall elect one delegate who shall have such fraction of a vote as the amount of tobacco of the 1931 crop delivered to the Association may be in a million pounds.

Growers who may not be able to attend the election September 16 may vote by mail or send their ballots to the election officers and such ballots so voted must reach the election offices between the hours of 8 a. m. and 6 p. m., September 18, if sent after 6 o'clock on the day of the election they cannot be counted in the result.

Delegates elected in the various counties will meet Monday, September 17, 1933, at the court house in that county of each district which delivered the largest amount of tobacco to the Association of the crop of 1931 and will there organize by the election of chairman and secretary and proceed to elect a director for said district to serve for the ensuing year.

Every member of the Association is urged to attend the mass meeting on Saturday, September 2, to nominate delegates and the election September 16, at which delegates will be chosen.

By order of the Board of Directors of the Burley Tobacco Growers' Co-operative Association:

H. LEE FARLEY,
Secretary and Treasurer.

A NEW MOVEMENT IN THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY

A meeting of Democrats, ladies and gentlemen who were associated with Col. P. H. Canham two years ago on the administration committee, appointed by the central and executive committees of the Democratic party, after the defeat of Governor James B. Black, the future of the party, its policies and its candidates were discussed informally and while no program was outlined, as the election was considered too remote, although the press and more active politicians have been keenly interested for some time the following statement was issued to the press:

"It was the consensus of opinion that the very first legislation should be a system of proper accounting, to include the publishing at stated periods of balance sheets showing the condition of the state's finances just as is required of the banks so that the public as well as the lawmakers will know where the state stands financially and where the money is coming from, as the first step before considering additional expenditures and appropriations.

"The thought was also expressed and emphasized that the commonwealth should have a governor who has been in close touch with all sections of the state, knowing its wants and needs with such capacity and native pride that it will be made the monumental effort of his life to coordinate and solidify all the resources and elements of strength within our state, backed by a people with full and unswerving confidence in their executive to a program that will elevate Kentucky to the position her people deserve and her resources justify.

"While candidates were all discussed as to their past records and what might logically be expected from them in the future and how each of them might or might not be actuated by the agencies corrupt and otherwise who have in the past influenced and even controlled legislation, conventions and selected candidates. It was agreed that the people alone at a primary should make the selection after being fully advised as to the financial support, and to be really helpful to the movement, under the circumstances, would positively decline to be candidates themselves.

"In the forthcoming election it should be made clear early in the campaign that prohibition and the Volstead act are now national issues. If they are to be taken up at all, and as this question in the past has retarded much necessary and urgent legislation, we should approach our new program of industrial and agricultural development, more and better education, cheaper transportation and distribution, more thorough and equitable taxation, with modern elementary institutions and management.

"The man for governor should stick to the job and after putting his hand to the plow his furrows should be straight without bending here and there, and with no object of having his friends urged him to office, or more especially neglect the affairs of the state in the absorbing ambition for senatorial honors."

The meeting was held at the home of Colonel Canham in Cherokee Park, Louisville, adjourning to meet again soon after the fall elections with a representative from each congressional district.

Special sale of women's. Holeproof Hose continues this week. Don't miss it. Ask any woman who has worn Holeproof Hose about them. $2 hose cut to $1.98. $3 hose cut to $1.25. $1 hose cut to 98c. Come early and get your size.—The Walsh Co.

CULTIVATING A CHILD'S SENSE OF HUMOR

We are all familiar with the old saying that a sense of humor is a saving grace, but even though we adults, mothers and teachers, appreciate this trait, too often we neglect the opportunity to encourage it in the child. All children love a joke. Even very young children are quick to catch a pun or a play on words. They are always ready for a good laugh, and they are all the happier if some one will enjoy the laugh with them.

Fortunately indeed in the child who has a teacher who indulges a sense of humor in both herself and her children. And if these same people receive further encouragement at home through mother, they develop a clear wit which is a joy even while they are small. The children who daily play under my window make remarks that are clever enough for any writer to use in his daily newspaper department, but I am not surprised at their remarks when I know the teacher who has them in charge at least four hours each day. She is always bubbling over with mirth and never allows the tiresome details of routine to dull her perspective. She never loses a chance to turn a word or a phrase at the proper moment so that the children catch the humor. And they grow to like this game of matching wits with the keenest alert mind of the joking teacher.

I visited that teacher's room one day and the class was writing a composition on "Mother." Ruth raised her hand and asked, "How do you spell 'awful'?" Miss Allen looked at her a moment in surprise and then said, "Why, Ruth, you don't mean you're using that word in a talk of 'Mother'?" Ruth's eyes danced and a broad smile broke over her face as she replied, "I just asked that on purpose to see you look surprised. I know how to spell that word and I'm saying my mother does awful nice things for me." The idea was that the child planned to use that word (this is not the place to discuss the propriety of its use) and when she saw the opportunity for a joke, she felt at liberty to share her discovery with the teacher because there was that certainty of appreciation which Miss Allen had encouraged.

Yesterday that same crowd of children to which I have previously referred was exploring the mysteries of a new house in process of construction. The carpenters had laid the shingles around the top of the roof in bunches just as they came from the lumber yards, and Dorothy had never happened to see shingles in that shape before. So she said carelessly, "I didn't know shingles came that way," and Bobbie, catching the remark quick as a wink, said, "How did you think they came, in paste board boxes wrapped in pink tissue paper?" Now, Bobbie goes to school to Miss Allen, and in addition he comes from a family who although very modestly endowed financially, have a wonderful faculty of getting fun out of life. They can construct a gloriously happy home on the very foundation of adversity, simply because they mix in that wonderful saving grace, a sense of humor.

Aside from teaching the children this happy trait, it is a most helpful factor in adding zest to the daily tasks of the teacher. A good laugh is a splendid nerve tonic, as any physician will testify, and the tension of ever-lastingly-heaping-at-it can be relieved many times during the day by the well-directed habit of roaming off for a moment into a "lighter vein." Some children as well as adults are more richly endowed by nature than others with this characteristic of humor, but it is wonderful what cultivation of even the tiniest germ will produce even in the soberest and seemingly duldest individual.—Edith Lockridge Reid.

FARM WOMEN IMPROVE HOME SEWING METHODS

Farm women in many sections are co-operating actively in clothing work as carried on with the assistance of state and county extension workers. In this work local representatives or leaders, selected by the various communities in a county, come together at some convenient point for training. Provided with the necessary teaching help, these women repeat to organized groups in their own neighborhoods the instruction they have received and gather up reports on work done. The success of local leadership is due not only to the ability and devotion of local women, but to the simple, practical basis to which extension workers have reduced their teaching.

According to reports received by the United States Department of Agriculture the things that are receiving particular attention are the making and use of dress forms; alteration of patterns and making of fitted-to-measure foundation patterns; process of clothing construction; remodeling; garment finishes; use of machine attachments; clothing hygiene, including the selection of shoes and corsets; millinery, and selection of textile materials and ready-made clothing for quality and design. As a result of the work, farm women have been enabled to improve their ability to select materials and to remodel and make garments and other articles of clothing at home.

The first use of radio to transmit information regarding nutrition, reported to the United States Department of Agriculture, was a talk on food for boys and girls sent out in July by the Michigan extension specialist in nutrition.

FEDERAL AID ROADS INCREASED 600 MILES

Nearly 600 miles nearer the goal of a completed system of highways for the United States is the report of the Bureau of Public Roads of the United States Department of Agriculture for the month of July. The final goal, the construction of a system of approximately 180,000 miles of federal aid highway consisting of a network of trunk line and secondary roads reaching into practically every county is still a long way off, but we are 5,392 miles near than at the beginning of the year, according to the bureau.

Completed federal aid roads now total 18,299 miles with 14,912 miles under construction and approximately 60 per cent complete. Including projects not yet under construction, federal aid roads in all stages now total 40,338 miles.

There is no indication of any slackening of the greatly increased rate of progress which began with the season of 1921 as the states continue to pour in plans for new projects and place them under construction as rapidly as possible. Nearly twelve and one-half million dollars was obligated to new projects in June and July, and in the week ending August 5 reports were received of the letting of 68 new projects and announcements of 57 to be let.

At the present time the force of the bureau is taxed to the limit with the examination of new plans and projects, inspection of roads under construction and the planning of the federal aid highway system which is being gotten into final shape.

A Triumph for Value

In the past two months Firestone has built and marketed more tires than in any similar period in its history.

This steadily increasing public preference is proof of the recognition by car owners of the greater values offered by Firestone. It is a tribute to Firestone men—all stockholders in the company—all actuated by the operating principle of Most Miles per Dollar.

The high average performance of Firestone Cords is without equal in the annals of tire making and is reflected by the general tendency to specify Firestone for hard service. Taxicab and bus lines, buying tires by the mile, are universally equipping with Firestone Cords.

There are many reasons for the high quality of Firestone tires but chief among the special manufacturing processes are double gum-dipping, thus eliminating internal friction by insulating each cord strand, and air-bag cure, insuring a well-balanced and perfectly shaped product.

Don't speculate in tires—you will find the right combination of price and quality in Firestone. Come in and let us tell you about the service these Cords are giving other car-owners whom you know.

MOVING PICTURES TO SHOW MANY TYPES OF HIGHWAYS

A series of one-reel motion picture films illustrating modern practice in the construction of the various types of highways has been prepared under the direction of the Bureau of Public Roads and are now available for free distribution by the motion picture section of the United States Department of Agriculture.

The films, consisting of one reel each, are as follows: Modern concrete road construction, building bituminous roads, mixed asphalt pavements, brick from clay pavement, granite block paving, high roads and sky roads.

In addition there will be completed in a short time "Building Forest Roads" and "Around the West by Forest Roads." A film on gravel road construction is in course of preparation.

These films are intended for use in engineering colleges, road meetings, and other public gatherings. They may be obtained upon application to the department for use on specific dates without cost other than that of paying for transportation both ways. On account of the limited number of copies of each film it is best to make reservations some time in advance.

A REAL COMPLIMENT

The beautiful store The Walsh Co. is building on South Maysville street shows this firm's appreciation for the people's trade of this section and is truly a compliment paid in full to every man, woman and child who trades in Mt. Sterling. Give us more firms like The Walsh Co., more stores and stocks like The Walsh Co.'s and Mt. Sterling's retail business will double.

DANGEROUS OPTIMISM

"There's a runner in your stocking," said the mother, catching sight of a broken stitch in her daughter's silk hose. "Is that so?" answered the modern maid. "I'll send another down after it."

TERMS OF THE TIMES

Little James lived in an apartment and had no room for pets. Once he went for a visit to a real home where a cat was wont to purr on the cosy hearth.

He exclaimed, "Oh, come here; the cat has left its engine on."

The mind is like a melon—it must either ripen or rot.

AREA PLAN OF TUBERCULOSIS ERADICATION ON INCREASE

The plan for eradicating tuberculosis in cattle from entire areas, such as counties, is daily growing in popularity, according to reports coming to the United States Department of Agriculture. The idea has taken hold in Michigan and is spreading rapidly. Already five counties have been freed of the plague, and reports from the inspector in charge for the government show that the boards of supervisors have appropriated money and made provision for co-operating with state and federal forces. When one country joins ranks for eradication its action stimulates others to follow. The prospect for ultimately ridding the country of the disease never looked so promising as at present, say those in charge.

CATTLE DIPPING RECORD AGAIN BROKEN IN TEXAS

Texas broke its own cattle dipping record when in July 6,783,503 dipplings in that state were recorded by the bureau of animal husbandry, United States Department of Agriculture. The figure is more than 150,000 greater than the dipplings for June, which, as recently announced, broke all records for progressive tick eradication since the work began in 1906.

There are nearly 10,000 vats in operation, of which more than 200 were built during July. The rapid progress being made in eradicating ticks is the result of thorough preparation and the excellent spirit of co-operation among the state and county officials, cattle owners and representatives of the United States Department of Agriculture.

The Light-Six

Now $975

So far this year Studebaker has built and sold more cars than during the entire year of 1921. And 1921, in spite of a general business depression, was the biggest year in Studebaker's 70 years' history.

This steady volume of business, plus the savings resulting from Studebaker's methods of complete manufacture, reduces manufacturing and selling costs. And it is a Studebaker policy of long standing to share these savings with the customer. Hence, the new low prices.

That's why you can buy a Studebaker Light-Six today at its new low price of $975—the lowest price for which it has ever sold and the lowest at which a car of such quality was ever offered.

Only the price is reduced. Quality is better than ever.

Stop in and see the Light-Six. Let us demonstrate its easy handling, its lack of vibration, its great comfort. Let us prove its endurance. Then drive it yourself.

BECOMING RESTLESS

The entire country is becoming restless over the antagonistic conditions prevailing between capital and labor.

The result of the existing conditions is that all businesses are becoming stagnant. If the merchant wants freight shipments he cannot get them. They must come by parcel post or by express and these high rate shipments must be paid and finally, when the article is sold, a big part of the cost is this expensive rate. By the prevailing conditions all business is affected. It matters not who is responsible, capital or labor, it is the great common people who pay the bills. President Harding claims adjusting powers, and yet how long must the people suffer? Two months have passed to the hurt of the government, to the strikers and their families and the roads themselves. Can't the president bring these two elements together on an equitable adjustment? The losses to all are beyond computation. The suffering at this date falls heavily on women and children and unless settled now will become intensified with the approaching winter months. As we see conditions, the present administration is to blame for continued troubles. Should it turn out the president is lacking in authoritative powers, the congress should grant them, and then the president should interpose, and would if he possessed in any degree the mettle of the late President Cleveland.

It is not for us to say what course to pursue, but it is up to the administration, and for the lack of settlement they will and should be held responsible. The entire country is ready for the enacting of her most prosperous period, and woe to the political party that hinders, for the people are becoming restless and will speak at the ballot.

Give us men, men who will do in straits like this. All parties concerned are ready for adjustments, and it is up to the president to speak now with a proposition just to both parties.

HOOVER COMPLIMENTS NON-UNION OPERATORS

In the course of his recent letter to Senator Borah, in response to inquiry concerning the coal situation and his views regarding the need of legislation for the regulation of coal prices, Secretary Hoover had the following to say in the nature of a compliment to the operators of mines in the non-union fields:

"You are aware that this tangled legal position was the reason why I undertook, on May 15 last, to set up a voluntary plan with coal producers for the restraint of prices. It is worth examining these results as bearing upon the need for legislation.

"At that time prices were agreed upon based upon the Garfield scale and ranged from $2.20 to $3.75 for coal at the mine wherever such voluntary arrangements could be made. This became effective among operators producing about 85 per cent of the current coal and served to restrain the rise in price until about the middle of July, despite the fact that a minority of operators who had refused to agree were securing as much as $10 a ton for coal.

"After July 15 one or two districts withdrew from the arrangement, and individual operators began to break away in some other districts, although a majority of the production has held to its undertaking right down to the present moment and operators have denied themselves literally millions that they could have obtained if it were not for their desire to maintain themselves and their industry in public repute.

"I enclose for sample a statement showing the coal sold under the fall price in the smokeless fields as compared with the profiteer coal from those districts."

Pointing out that "the agreements with non-union mines expire with the strike," Secretary Hoover asserted that "some of the fair price coal was subsequently used for speculation," and added: "It is not fair that those should be allowed to run loose who would use their country's distress as opportunity for profit."

In the concluding paragraph of his letter, Secretary Hoover said that the rise in prices were due mostly to "resales at speculative prices from stocks where state organizations have not been effective and where coal has been drawn from the minority of coal operators who have refused to co-operate in the voluntary restraint of prices."

ABANDONS LEADERSHIP OF SHIP SUBSIDY BILL

When President Harding decided to become the leader of his party in fact as well as in name in matters of legislation he voluntarily elected to test his leadership on the ship subsidy bill, or ship bonus, as it is called. The statement was then made in his name that if the congress adjourned without passing the bill he would call it back in special session. His consent to the postponement of the ship subsidy bill until the regular session in December is an abandonment of his leadership and a surrender to the fears of the Republican members of congress who are running for re-election.

The refusal of the Ohio Republicans even to mention the ship subsidy bill in their state platform, notwithstanding the president's request for an endorsement, indicates the extent of the Republican fear that the enactment of this scheme for dissipating the people's millions would add one more to their chances for defeat in November.

This presidential consent to delay the bill comes apparently as a result of the pressure which the Republicans of the house of representatives have brought to bear on Mr. Harding.

In the course of President Harding's letter to Majority Leader Mondell, of the house, there is revealed the situation which confronted him and compelled him to yield in the face of the seeming discipline of the Republican congressmen to sacrifice their hopes of election by passing the bill before November 7.

"I had much rather the bill should await consideration until we can rivet the attention of congress with a full attendance than jeopardize its success by pressing for an immediate decision," wrote Mr. Harding to Majority Leader Mondell.

It has become pretty evident that the Republican representatives and senators who are seeking election have been badly frightened by the popular reaction against the Fordney-McCumber profiteers' tariff bill and the muddling of legislation generally. These congressmen have shown a disposition to revolt rather than further inflame public indignation by practically making a present of the people's merchant marine to a clique of powerful corporations.

FIFTY-THIRD WEDDING ANNIVERSARY TODAY

Today Peter Greenwade, aged 75 years, and his wife, 72 years old, are celebrating their fifty-third wedding anniversary. The menu is made up from farm products, home-cured hams, choice lamb, vegetables and fruits being of Mr. Greenwade's raising, and prepared by his daughters, are as toothsome as they can be. The well-fattened chickens and turkeys were prepared according to culinary art and were delightful. The cakes were great and delightful, as were also the frozen natural cream. Every item was from the farm and garden and was prepared by daughters and granddaughters.

Mr. and Mrs. Greenwade were never happier and the crowd about them, sons and their wives, daughters and their husbands, grandchildren, friends and neighbors composing the happy gathering.

We only wish we could have responded favorably to Mr. Greenwade's urgent invitation, but having been out of sorts physically for the past few days, our doctor thought we would be risking much. This happy honored couple has our best wishes for many happy returns. We like these occasions and the invitations are joyfully received, even though we are forced to answer with regrets. "Happy here and blissful over there."

HAZARD OPERATORS SEND TELEGRAMS

On August 28, Chairman Cyde B. Aitchison, of the Interstate Commerce Commission, at Washington, stated to the senate committee that the Louisville and Nashville railroad is supplying cars to Eastern Kentucky 180 per cent, as compared to the pre-coal strike period. The Hazard operators, knowing that car supply in Eastern Kentucky is less than 27 per cent, immediately called Mr. Aitchison's attention to his mistake in the following telegram, sent from Lexington August 29:

"Newspaper reports quote you as giving the impression to the United States senate committee and to the public that the Louisville and Nashville railroad is supplying coal cars to Eastern Kentucky 180 per cent as compared to the pre-coal strike period.

"If any division has during this year functioned that way and the coal price rose from below cost of production, where it had been for a year, it was due entirely to the union coal miners' strike.

"Facts are available to you showing that car supply has been less than 30 per cent since the railroad strike began, and in fairness to the operators we request you to correct your error.

"We state unreservedly that reasonable restoration of railroad performance, coupled with the operation of all union and non-union mines, will quickly settle the entire coal problem.

"Your commission has a real opportunity to serve the public by compelling the Louisville and Nashville railroad to equally distribute cars and thus stop further adding to its vast storage pile of coal."

The following telegram, which also was signed by the Hazard Coal Operators' Association, was sent to Senators Stanley and Ernst and to each of the eleven representatives in congress from Kentucky:

"Kentucky coal operators are looking to our representatives to state the facts touching our industry when the proposed coal bills are before you tomorrow. The effort to fix the coal price under the present 26 per cent car supply is manifestly unfair.

"The coal problem, now that the coal strike is settled, is strictly a railroad problem, and all efforts should be directed that way.

"Pressure for price control comes from consumers, including railroads and public utilities, who refused to purchase in March and April at figures below the cost of production.

"Lake coal shippers now crying for coal at a fixed price effected a tight combination this past spring and refused to purchase even one-tenth the normal amount of coal at below cost of production, forcing Eastern Kentucky mines to remain idle in the usual lake coal shipping season, and we are reliably informed that a goodly portion of the coal that was sent to the head of the lakes this past spring was reloaded

MORE POWER TO HARRISON

The New York Herald, Republican in politics, says:

"When the wool producing statesmen confess pecuniary interests in the wool schedules they say they are within their rights and sneer solemnly at any suggestion that private interest enters into their legislative action. And when all senators confess personal interest in a 35-cent tariff on crude petroleum, as Senator Harrel, of Oklahoma, did, you get the reply that they are 'within their rights' in voting for the duty.

It is high time there should be clearly established the principle that it is not within a senator's or a representative's rights to vote on questions or for measures in which he has a direct personal interest, big or little. The needed illuminant will be afforded by a record vote in the senate on Senator Harrison's searching resolution affirming the just rule in Jefferson's Manual and the common law of congress for a century and a third. Naturally there is every disposition among profiteering statesmen to block the progress of the resolution toward a record vote. There is no justification, legal, moral or personal, for such an attitude. Let Pat Harrison batter away. The New York Herald is for him in this matter because it believes he has the discernment, the wit and the courage to make the fight, and it does not care a continental for the circumstance that he is a Democrat.

Hiram Johnson is a declining figure. The test of his sincerity came when the vote was reached on the unseating of Senator Newberry for spending too much money in the Michigan primaries.

Johnson's great issue a year before had been sanctity of popular nominations. Yet when he had an opportunity to speak and act against a brazen, even though foolish, attempt to buy a nomination, he was rushing across the continent—arriving after the vote had been taken.

The absence from the roll call and the theatrical attempt to make it appear accidental was typical. Johnson had won the Michigan primaries in the national campaign of 1920. The delegates were in control of Newberry's political friends. They remained firm for Johnson throughout the balloting. Johnson avoided voting against their leader, although his principles required that he should lead the fight for his unseating.

BETTER-SIRES ENROLLMENT PASSES THE 8,000 MARK

With the growing understanding of the utility value of purebred livestock and especially purebred sires, the list of persons enrolled in the "Better Sires—Better Stock" campaign is rapidly increasing. The middle of August it passed the 8,000 mark, signifying that many persons have filed statements with the United States Department of Agriculture that their livestock breeding operations will be conducted henceforth on a purebred basis. This includes all classes of domestic livestock, including poultry.

In some counties of limited areas the number of farms is relatively small. Gordon B. Nance, county agent of Oldham county, Kentucky, points out, however, that although his county has only 1,086 farms, 10 per cent of the farmers have signed enrollment blanks, which signifies active participation in systematic livestock improvement work. In this connection the bureau of animal husbandry of the United States Department of Agriculture points out that the proportions are for all farms and that the percentages for farms in which livestock is the principal product probably would be much higher.

American Legion News

Ships, Pullman cars, tents and army supply base buildings, private homes and hotels will house the thousands of delegates and visitors expected at the American Legion national convention at New Orleans, October 16-20. A preliminary canvass by the convention hotels and housing committee has demonstrated the fact that New Orleans will be able to house 150,000 guests. Passenger liners will be docked and former "gobs" and marines will be allotted first cabin accommodations on them. A Pullman city of hundreds of cars, to be established in three large railroad yards, will care for 14,000 visitors, the convention committee has announced. The "hotels on wheels" will be provided with all the conveniences of a modern hostelry. Dining car service will be maintained, shower baths will be erected and all equipment will be electrically lighted white parked. The railroads have established a charge of $12 for parking in addition to the $54 for daily Pullman car rental. The average cost to the Pullman guest will be about $2 a day. If the size of the convention crowd warrants it tents will be erected on the parquets of some of the more centrally located boulevards. A model barracks, patterned after those of cantonment days, will be established in the army supply base, a fifteen million dollar structure on the river front. Private homes will be thrown open to the veteran who brings his wife to the convention. New Orleans hotel men have agreed upon a uniform rate schedule of $1.50 a day without bath and $2.50 with bath. Charges in the tent cities and improvised hotels will be from fifty to seventy-five cents a day and the cost in private homes will compare favorably with the hotel rates. All reservations for rooms during the five days of the convention must be made through the legion department adjutant of the state from which the visitor goes.

VIOLATORS OF LIVESTOCK LAWS MUST PAY FINES

For violation of regulatory laws relating to livestock and meat fines were recently imposed in 43 cases, as announced by the bureau of animal husbandry in its service and regulatory announcements for July. The list of violators includes railway and express companies, meat dealers and livestock owners. Most of the violations were of the quarantine law which restricts the interstate shipment of diseased, ticky, or uninspected stock. Several livestock owners encountered the federal law when attempting to drive or ship tuberculous cattle interstate.

Violations of the meat inspection law included the offering of unsound meat, shipping uninspected meat and lard, and, in one case, using a wrapper bearing the meat inspection legend for wrapping uninspected meat. The majority of the fines range from $25 to $200. Although the federal laws and regulations relating to livestock are for the most part well understood and complied with, persons unfamiliar with the regulations and with the importance of preventing interstate shipment of diseased animals and unsound meats may obtain copies of regulations by applying to the department.

Growers placed parchment cones over the hills of cantaloupes to protect the young plants against insects at the suggestion of the county extension agent in Dona Ana county, New Mexico. It was found that the temperature under the cones remained from 5 to 10 degrees above that of the outside air so that plants under them were not injured by a light freeze which killed unprotected ones in that district. The growers stated that the covers paid for themselves in securing better and more uniform germination aside from the protection against insects and frost.

EASTERN STOCKMEN HAVE VISIONS OF CATTLE COUNTRY

Will the Atlantic seaboard yet be the "cattle country" of the United States?

A distinct trend toward beef raising has been noted in the east for some months.

Farmers and breeders in this section of the United States, long supreme as producers of dairy cattle, are now turning their attention to raising beef cattle.

The grassy pastures, hillside forage and extensive timber land of the east is said by experts to be admirably adapted to beef cattle production. One leading breed of beef cattle is now said to number more than 15,000 head on eastern farms.

The developing demand for beef cattle in the Atlantic and New England states is responsible for the decision to hold a beef cattle stock show at Wilmington, Del., starting the week of September 4.

True this is a Hereford show, but it is a national show and will be the greatest exhibition of beef cattle ever held in the east.

Many herds are entered and cash prizes totaling more than $6,000 will be awarded.

States represented are: Colorado, Connecticut, Delaware, Indiana, Kentucky, Massachusetts, Missouri, Mississippi, Ohio and Pennsylvania.

Eastern stockmen are taking to the idea, realizing that they have let much valuable land go to waste by failure to utilize their natural advantages.

It takes so little to make us glad. Just a cheering clasp of a friendly hand. Just a word from one who can understand. And we finish the work we long had planned. And we lose the doubt and the fear we had—So little it takes to make us glad. —Golden Rule Magazine.

An unusual type of return for a banded bird was recently sent in to the United States Department of Agriculture from Corning, Ohio. June 29 a band was taken from the stomach of a black snake which had been placed on a fledgling catbird five days before by the same person who found it.

According to reports received by the United States Department of Agriculture, there have been 143,212 muskrat skins shipped from Alaska since December 1, 1921. This is almost as many as were shipped during the entire year of 1919.

A common tern banded as a fledgling at Brigantine, N. J., August 13, 1920, holds one of the long-distance records for this species, according to reports to the United States Department of Agriculture. It was retaken on May 20, 1922, at Paris Bay, Blanchisseuse, Trinidad. Another common tern on record was banded as a nestling on the coast of Maine, and recovered four years later in the delta of the Niger river, on the west coast of Africa.

A home-made gummed paper dress form for every woman in the state who wants one is the goal set by local leaders in extension work in Washington state, according to reports received by the United States Department of Agriculture. The method of making the forms as originally demonstrated to group meetings of local representatives or leaders of the various communities in each county organized for the work, has been taken by them to the farm women in their communities. As a result, 2,213 dress forms are reported as having been made by farm women in Washington state in the six months ending June 1, 1922.

The new Goodyear Cross-Rib Tread Cord

A Popular-Priced Cord Tire Without a Rival

The new Goodyear Cross-Rib Tread Cord Tire is built with genuine high-grade long-staple cotton as a foundation.

It is liberally oversize—the 4½-inch tire, for example, measuring nearly 5 inches.

The deep, clean-cut, cog-like pattern of its tread affords excellent traction even in snow and mud, engaging the road like a cogwheel.

The scientific distribution of rubber in this tread—the wide center rib and the semi-flat contour—gives a thick, broad surface that is exceedingly slow to wear.

This new tire is a genuine Goodyear through and through—in design, in material, in construction.

It costs less to buy than the net price you are asked to pay for many "long discount" tires of unknown reputation and value.

Why be satisfied with less than this efficient tire can give—why take a chance on an unknown make?

MAIL ORDER HOUSES BOOMING

Sales totals of the great mail order houses show an enormous increase, particularly in strictly farming sections.

This is not pleasant news for retail stores in our average small towns, but it is what they may expect.

There is only one way in which the insidious mail order campaigns can be combated, and that is by local merchants frankly explaining their merchandising possibilities to the people through advertising.

It is a well-known fact that the big mail order concerns maintain departments of considerable magnitude to check up the towns where the local merchants appear to lack enterprise.

There they concentrate their batteries of advertising and catalogue distribution.

The mail order house never prospers in a town where the local merchants advertise consistently because the mail order men know they cannot compete with the local store if the merchant understands his business.

The cheapness with which the big mail order man can buy is more than offset by the low overhead the local merchant can get along with.

To hold his own, however, the local merchant must not hide his light under a bushel.

The public needs educating to a knowledge that they can buy at home as cheaply, that they can actually see what they are buying before they pay for it, and that they do not have to wait sometimes weeks for the delivery of the article they want.

The National Cloak Company reports a heavy increase in its business all over the country, though it is doubtful if this great concern carries anything like the line of up-to-date goods carried by local stores throughout the country.

When the merchants get ready to talk plainly to the people they will have nothing to fear from the mail order man, but if they remain silent, then the outsider will surely burrow his way into their profits.

Self-satisfaction has spelled many a bankruptcy.

In the garden of life, young fellow, take your time. Hit the low places as well as the high ones.

Leaves Bulk of Estate To U. of K.

Establishment of a college to be a part of the University of Kentucky, to train young men for the diplomatic and consular service, is provided in the will of Dr. James Kennedy Patterson, for 41 years president of the university, filed for probate with the Fayette county court.

The Security Trust Company was named executor and furnished $150,000 bond.

The proposed college would be unique, providing four years' additional training for students who have had four years' college work and an extra year for the degree of master of arts. The highest earned degree, doctor of philosophy, now requires only three years of study and research after the completion of four years' regular college work.

The university is made the principal beneficiary of its former president's estate. "The grand old man of the university," despite his retirement from the active presidency in 1912 under conditions which Dr. Patterson in his will refers to as a "gross injustice," bequeaths to it his library of several thousand volumes also.

"Notwithstanding the gross injustice done me by the board of trustees," says the will, "when upon the motion of Henry S. Barker, they rescinded the conditions of retirement which they had adopted unanimously in 1909, upon the execution of which, in good faith, I based my resignation of the presidency of the university, I am unable to set aside my original intention of making the university my heir. After the payment of the special legacies and annuities set forth elsewhere in this will and testament, I therefore appoint and designate the University of Kentucky my residuary legatee and heir of my estate on the conditions herein set forth.

"My estate is not large, but if invested as directed by my executors and trustees at compound interest for a series of years, will, within a reasonable time, form a principal, the income from which will support adequately a college which shall form an integral part of the university, and shall bear the name of my deceased son, William Andrew Patterson. The college established shall have for its special object the preparation of young men for the diplomatic and consular service of the United States. It shall also provide a special training for those who may seek employment in extending upon natural and scientific lines the commercial relations of the United States.

"Its matriculates shall have the degree of A. M. from the University of Kentucky or some other reputable college or university."

The course is to extend over four years and embrace international law, municipal and civil law, political science, commercial ethics, comparative philosophy, Romance language and an Oriental language.

It is estimated that the estate after 40 or 50 years, will yield $35,000 to $40,000 annually.

"Should the university decline to accept the provisions," the will says, "my executors shall make negotiations for the establishment of the college with Louisville, Frankfort, Paris, Danville or elsewhere and shall accept as the home of the college the most eligible locality."

Dr. Patterson left to the university his library of several thousand volumes and valued at $10,000, provided

HAS NICKEL SMOKE PASSED?

The Connecticut tobacco growers propose to fix the price of their own product.

Contracts have been received by the Connecticut Valley Tobacco Association, totalling more than 22,000 acres. The total stalk cut acreage of association members in Connecticut and Massachusetts is only 27,895, so that the acreage signed up more than assures the formation of a state-wide co-operative tobacco farmers' association by which the farmer will market his crops at a stipulated uniform price after the manner of the California fruit and Kentucky tobacco growers.

The move has been a long time in arriving, but it is here at last.

The result undoubtedly will prove favorable to the tobacco growers, but it may raise the price of the five-cent cigar. Any added expense naturally will be passed along to dear old ultimate consumer, but, weary as he is of exploitation, perhaps he will not mind, provided nothing is added to the freight by the middleman and the tobacco growers benefit by the move.

The nickel smoke, once so popular, today is almost unknown to men in even ordinary circumstances so any upward price will hit the poor alone, which would be regrettable. So far as the growers are concerned, they contend they have not received the worth of their product, the work and investment considered in any part of the country, though the price of the smoke has been steadily mounting.

HE SHOULDN'T RESIGN

Tom Russell, of Maysville, did more than any other man or probably could have done to revive the interest in Central Kentucky in baseball and toward the organization of the Blue Grass League, which appeared this year rejuvenated as if monkey glands had been transplanted into an almost lifeless corpse. Now he says he is going to resign. Mr. Russell gives a number of substantial reasons for resigning. Of course, he has other things which require time.

Nobody who knows the genial chief-tain of the Blue Grass League, however, fails to recognize how much he is willing to do to keep baseball alive in the Blue Grass. The chances are that if President Russell had received the proper co-operation from the fans of the Blue Grass for whom he did so much in not only fostering but forming a Blue Grass League, he would be willing to stick to his task. By the man in authority, only complaints are heard. If Tom Russell knew that there was an overwhelming desire on the part of the baseball fans of Central Kentucky for him to remain at the helm in the Blue Grass League, he might be persuaded to.

At least, some effort ought to be made to keep him at the post. He is qualified and he is a live wire.

A "Tom Russell Day" ought to be declared in every town in the circuit in recognition of his service in forming the Blue Grass League this year and to demonstrate the demand of the fans of the towns having clubs now in the race for the pennant for him to keep at his job, whether he wants to or not.—Lexington Herald.

Their Job To Keep Our Home Fires Burning

SECRETARY HUGHES' NEWBERRY ROORBACK

The biggest roorback of the campaign so far is Secretary Hughes' defense of Senator Newberry in a letter to a New Jersey clergyman. Secretary Hughes' letter stated only what everybody already knew, that the majority opinion of the supreme court turned wholly on whether congress had the authority to enact a corrupt practices act applicable to the primaries as well as elections, and it was held that it had not. Nothing else in the Newberry case was decided.

The immediate reply of Cordell Hull, chairman of the Democratic national committee, exposed the weakness and futility of the Hughes statement, pointing out the mistake in appointing a civil lawyer like Hughes for this task when the administration needs the ablest criminal lawyers to defend it. Chairman Hull also asserted that if Secretary Hughes does not know that the Newberry seat in the United States senate was bought he is the only intelligent person in America who does not know the fact.

The telling statement of Senator Pomeroy of Ohio, calling attention to the fact that the testimony against Newberry in this senate trial was ignored by Secretary Hughes, aided in exposing the hypocritical and partisan character of Mr. Hughes' defense of the Newberry purchased seat.

The "most unkindest cut of all" was that of the New York World, which editorially characterized the letter of defense as "Mr. Hughes' Dirtiest Day's Work." This is the severest kind of condemnation in view of the fact that the New York World invented Mr. Hughes, gave him his first great opportunity in the

New York Insurance expose and has always treated him with the utmost consideration in his capacity as a public man.

The consensus of opinion is that Mr. Hughes' letter to the New Jersey clergyman defending Newberry is as much of a boomerang as the Burdard incident in the campaign of 1884, and that in reopening the Newberry case in behalf of the Republican national committee, Secretary Hughes has started afresh the discussion of the case by the press and the public and has put the seal of Republican party approval on Newberry and Newberryism and the purchase of seats in the United States senate.
